

Building for SUCCESS

Directors £43,607 - £48,119
The Northumberland
Church of England Academy

Great schools are all unique. Yet common to them all is a great vision. Embedded in The Northumberland Church of England Academy is just such a vision: of an inclusive and high-achieving school in which each child will be encouraged and enabled to flourish. This exciting development brings together ten existing schools to form one all-age Academy on five sites, and over £46m will be spent on ensuring that the Academy has buildings and facilities of very high quality. Such ambition calls for exceptional leadership throughout the Academy, and we now seek Directors who can work with our new Executive Leadership Team to serve the needs and aspirations of every learner, energetically delivering the vision and ensuring its continuing freshness. These roles will put you at the heart of the Academy's strategic planning and policy development.

Director of E-Learning

Technology has revolutionised the way in which learners access and assimilate information. You'll help to ensure that we harness the full potential of e-learning, creating a contemporary and engaging environment for pupils and teachers alike. You'll bring an extensive knowledge of ICT, but more importantly, innovative ideas on how it can best be utilised in an educational context.

Director of Specialism (Design and the Built Environment)

You'll ensure that the Academy provides the very best learning opportunities in design and the built environment. Working closely with other subject specialists you'll devise learning plans that provide all learners with a rich and diverse education experience and develop an excellent platform for those who choose to pursue careers or further learning opportunities in Design and the Built Environment.

Director of Literacy

One of the Academy's key objectives is to have a robust and proactive strategy in place to improve literacy issues in learners. You will ensure that they can confidently implement intervention strategies and will have access to the professional support and advice that they require. Working closely with all subject leaders, you will ensure that high-quality speaking and listening is at the heart of all learning.

Director of Learning to Learn

Our Learning to Learn strategy will ensure that all our pupils have the skills, dispositions and inspiration to become independent learners. You'll work closely with colleagues to ensure that this initiative permeates the entire ethos of the Academy and is reflected in learning and teaching practice in all subjects – translating strategic aspiration into practical action in the classroom and raising attainment for learners of all ages and abilities.

Woodhorn Colliery Museum, Ashington

Diocese of Newcastle

Duke of Northumberland

The Academy project is jointly sponsored by the Diocese of Newcastle and the Duke of Northumberland.

For an informal, confidential discussion, please contact Peter Addison-Child or Adam Brett at Navigate by phone on 0844 800 5300 or visit www.leadnorthumberland.co.uk
Closing date: 13 March 2009.

 navigate